

THE HUFFINGTON POST

Posted Tuesday, August 4, 2009 at 2:05 pm

The Top Ten Eco-friendly Wineries In The U.S.

by Barbara Fenig

We here at HuffPost Green are always striving to green our lifestyles, so we thought we would pass along Greenopia's directory of sustainable United States wineries as our go-to shopping list.

We can't think of a better way to be more green than to drink sustainably produced wine straight from the vine. So take a sip and vote on your favorite!

The top ten rankings were developed based on the following factors: green fruit, eco-friendly wine packing, growing practices, production and transportation, and environmental certifications.

Rank #6

Bonny Doon Vineyards produces a collection of biodynamic wines in Santa Cruz, California and currently seeks governmental biodynamic certification.

This article is posted at:

http://www.huffingtonpost.com/2009/08/04/the-top-ten-eco-friendly_n_248159.html?slidnumber=7#slide_image